The Fairview Heights Literary Society began its fall and winter season on Tuesday night with a meeting at C. L. Pilger's on Berkeley avenue. An outline of business for the future was adopted, and an interesting programme rendered. The first number was a comic reading from Mark Twain by President, Mohrman; followed by a baker's dozen of comedians by Miss Virginia Borst; declamation, Oscar Hale; solo, Miss A. E. Baldwin; comic reading, C. L. Pilger; the society paper, P. Mohrman. The society meets October 24, with Mr. Stanford Farrand.

A child of Wm. Hoffman of Orange street is sick with scarlet fever. This is the third case that has occurred during the past week, a child in the family of Samuel Cropper and one in the family of Joseph Elor being afflicted with the same disease. The physician attending Mr. Cropper's child, thinks the disease has been contracted in the school, and is due to the carelessness of some parents whose children had but a light attack of the fever and who have not taken the precaution they are in duty bound to take to prevent the spreading of the disease.

Mr. R. Edmiston started from the New York City Hall at 3:30 last Saturday afternoon, intended to walk to Bridgeport, Conn. The 19 miles took 41 hours.

An early start was made the following morning and Portchester was reached in time for breakfast. Occasional showers rendered the roads slippery, and slightly interfered with the pace; until at Newark some heavy rain fell, and it was necessary to take refuge at the hotel for dinner, and abandon the remainder of the trip, excepting a couple of miles to South Norwalk in the evening. Watessing.

Mr. Walter S. Freeman, chairman of the Sidewalk Committee, visited Watessing on Tuesday to inspect several hundred feet of flagstone sidewalk recently put down by Contractor Callahan. Several persons had grievous complaints which they were desirous of having brought to the attention of the Township Committee and pointed out by Mr. Freeman and laid the complaints before him. Mr. Hyde called his attention to the fact that formed on Orange street at the north end of his property, owing to the stopping up of a culvert by the D. L. & W. R. Co. Mr. Freeman promised to have the matter attended to. Mr. John Van Gieson applied for a flagstone sidewalk fronting his property. Contractor Callahan was instructed to go ahead and put it down and he is busily engaged at it. A lady who has been annoyed with the water from Dodd street running into her cellar, freely expressed her opinion about the surveys employed by the town and their methods of doing their work. Mr. Freeman listened with patience and promised to use his influence to have a culvert put across Dodd street at the defective spot complained of.

—BRANDRIOLI beats all for healing and curing any throat or lung trouble.

Indigent Children.

A distressing case of neglect and suffering among children was brought to the attention of overseer of the poor, C. L. Voorhees, during the past week. Last Sunday while officer James Foster was on duty on Orange street, he was informed that a number of small boys were in the habit of sleeping in a barn in the rear of his dwelling on the same street. The officer went to the barn and discovered three boys apparently between ten and twelve years of age, who on seeing him made their escape from the barn. A search was made through the barn, and a small boy named Washington Tell was found. The boy escaped from a reformatory institution not long since, and on coming back to Bloomfield found his home broken up. He said he had lived in this manner for about two months, and his principal food had been apples and grapes. Mr. Deimert, who was among the crowd when the boy was captured, immediately gave him money with which to buy food. The officer placed him in charge of Mr. Voorhees on Tuesday. Chas. Smith of East Orange, a brother-in-law of Washington Tell, brought Albert Tell, his brother, and put him in charge of the overseer. Mr. Voorhees will endeavor to find a home for the children in the Newark Orphan Asylum. He does not think it would be wise to put the children in a reformatory, as they are not criminals. Their father, Thomas Tell, is still living, but claims that he is unable to support the children. The overseer will take legal proceedings against him in order to compel him if possible to contribute toward the children's support in the asylum.

The Pavilion Meetings.

The meetings at the Pavilion, both on Monday night and on Sunday afternoon, have been growing in interest. The throng was reached last Monday night. Notwithstanding the heavy rain the people came in large numbers and filled the place. It was perhaps the largest meeting that has yet been held, and more than half the audience were young men and boys. The speaker was Rev. E. R. Young, who has been a Missionary for nine years among the Indians in Canada, 1200 miles northwest of St. Paul. Mr. Young appeared in Indian costume with buckskin coat, and beautifully beaded leggings and moccasins, and started off in his address with a good bear story, which held the attention of the boys, old and young. The address throughout was full of thrilling incidents of Missionary life, showing the hardships endured by those who take the Gospel to these distant tribes. It was very delightful to hear Mr. Young testify to the honesty and uprightness of the good done among the Indians by the preaching of the gospel. Many of them are faithful Christians, and away yonder in the land of snow and ice have their churches and schools and every example lives. It was with great difficulty that Mr. Young could make himself heard on account of the torrent of rain falling upon the roof during all the service, but all who heard were delighted.

THANKS! The Committee having charge of Monday night meetings at the Pavilion desire to thank the individuals who so kindly assisted in paying the expenses attending the lecture of Rev. E. R. Young last Monday evening. It is very encouraging to find that there are those among us who are ready and willing to help along a good work. They would also return thanks to those who have assisted in the singing and in other matters connected with the meeting, not overlooking the good offices of THE BLOOMFIELD CITIZEN in giving notice of the meetings.

Fire.

The dairy stables of Michael Noll, Arlington avenue, were burned down on Friday morning between eight and nine o'clock. For some unknown reason considerable time was allowed to elapse before an alarm was given. There are no water hydrants within a reasonable distance of the place, and owing to these facts the firemen who promptly responded when the alarm was given could do nothing toward saving the building as it was doomed when they arrived. Both the East Orange and Bloomfield departments were on the ground. Prospect Hose Company of East Orange and Active Company No. 2 of Bloomfield, coupled their lines of hoses together and got a stream on the burning building, and the adjoining haystacks. The cattle were all driven from the burning building, and the wagons and other articles in the stables were saved. The origin of the fire is a mystery. Two theories are advanced, one is that it resulted from spontaneous combustion of hay or feed, another, that the building was struck by lightning during the night and the hay ignited. The building was a new one recently erected at a cost of $2,500 and stood on the site where the barn was burned down about two years ago. The total loss is estimated at $3,000, partially insured.

Campaign Notes.

—On account of the storm the Democratic banner raising at Montclair on Monday night.

A meeting of the Cleveland and Thurman Club will be held at Metz's Hall, Monday, Sept. 24th at 8 P. M. J. A. Beecher of Newark N. J. will address the topic.

The James Crisp battery is the name of a political campaign organized by the young democracy of Bloomfield. They have obtained uniforms. Mr. Crisp has presented them with a handsome brass cannon, valued at $100.

A Democratic paper published in Newark, referring to the contest for Assemblymen, says that the First District is largely Republican. Thomas McGowan will be renominated and the Democrats will probably run E. A. Raynor of Bloomfield, or Hugh Mullen of Montclair.

The Republican employees of Thos. Oakes & Co., woolen cloth manufacturers, raised a Harrison and Morton campaign banner last night (Friday) at the junction of Belleville avenue and Broad street. Mr. Fred H. Pileh delivered an address suitable to the occasion. The colored Republican Club Drum Corp furnished the music.

County Bridge Matters.

It is not at all probable that the request for a bridge over Second River at Carteret avenue which was presented to the Board of Freeholders will be speedily granted; the appropriation in the hands of the Bridge Committee being exhausted. The demands on the funds have been unusually large of late and the members of the Board expressed astonishment when they were informed at the last meeting that this fund had reached its extremity. County Auditor Pearson was instructed to prepare a statement showing where it had been spent. The following is a brief synopsis of the Auditors rendering amounts available at the beginning of the year: North Belleville Free Bridge, $13,000; East Orange, $8,393; Orange, $4,832; West Orange, $4,322; Franklin, $1,400; South Orange, $2,641; Millburn, $2,400; Montclair, $2,045; together with the expenses of maintaining the Passaic River free bridges.

LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.

"Why Not Profit by Experience?"

To The Citizen:

It is a long time since I have tested the liberality of THE CITIZEN, so I do not know whether its columns are, as formerly, open to two sides of a question, but the article with the caption quoted above moves me to make a trial.

In the name of Protection the readers of THE CITIZEN are warned against bringing on themselves a recurrence of the hard times of 1857 which are attributed to a reduction of the tariff. This is the first time I have ever heard a reduction of the tariff offered as a reason for the business depression of 1857, still I might accept it if I did not remember that the crash of 1873, with its after-years of depression, lasting to this day, and filling our highways with tramps, our poorhouses with paupers and our jails with criminals, all came under a high protective tariff. I do not mean to be understood as attributing those or any other hard times to a high tariff, for since we have suffered financial disaster under both high and low tariff it seems to me the part of wisdom to look outside the tariff question for the key to the problem of hard times.

Accordingly I have looked up a little history pertaining to 1857 and I find that in February of that year, Congress demonetized all foreign coins of both gold and silver. Up to that time all foreign gold coins and the silver coins of nearly all the nations were full legal tender in the United States at values fixed by our laws, and gold being overvalued in the United States, since our law of 1834, increasing the amount of gold in a dollar, immense quantities came to this country and remained. They were held by the banks as reserves in large quantities.

After their demonetization, as they were no longer legal tender in payment of debts, the banks could not use them at par to meet their liabilities. They were compelled to sell them at their home valuation instead of that fixed upon by the former laws of the United States. They were sold out of the country in large quantities, never to return.

This in addition to the law of 1853, which demonetized all fractional silver in sums of over five dollars, rendered the banks incapable of standing runs upon them for coin and they suspended specie payment on the first disturbing influence.

So I am more confirmed in the opinion I have long held, that by looking over the laws relating to currency at the time of any period of depression, or more graphically "hard times," we shall always find a decrease in the volume of money. So far I have never found an exception to this rule. Therefore let us profit by experience and not be deluded with the idea that either Protection or Free-Trade can insure good times.

CELIA B. WHITEHEAD.

To The Citizen.

Since the moon has been so unkind as to refuse to show her face for the last few nights, I think the Township Committee should remedy this deficiency and light the street lamps, as life and limb have scarcely been safe these dark nights. It is a penny wise and a pound foolish policy that allows such a state of affairs. The calendar may say that the moon should shine, but when it does not, then the Committee should see that its streets are properly lighted.

GLEN RIDGE, N. J.

Obituary.

Samuel G. Moore, son of Samuel Moore the well-known real estate agent, died on Saturday morning, the 15th inst, after a lingering illness. Mr. Moore was in his 23d year, well known and highly esteemed by a wide circle of friends. He was employed for several years as clerk with the well-known firm of Arnold Mackey & Co of New York City, his health becoming impaired he went west and was absent about two years; he had been home only a short time when he died.

The funeral services were held on Monday afternoon at his parents' residence on Thomas street. Rev. John A. Monroe of the Park M. E. Church officiated, assisted by Rev. G. W. Paul of Westminster Church. Mrs. Eugene Magory, mother of John Magory of Glen Ridge, mother of John Magory of Glen Ridge, officiated at the residence of her son, on Thursday afternoon. Rev. G. W. Paul officiated.

The shades of night were falling fast, As through a bankrupt village passed A man who bore, mid silence dead, A flag on which there could be read: Free Trade.

The grass is growing in the streets, The clothes are out on all the lines, The factory fires are dead and cold, The kids are weaned, starved and old—Free Trade.

"Try not to work," the old man said, "The wages will not pay for bread." He merely let his banner fly—Free Trade!

"Stay! stay!" the wretched cried, "and rest Among us whom Free Trade has blest." Far off the world came on the wind, As of a spirit sick in mind: Free Trade!

Next morn they found beneath that flag A faded old and useless rag, A skeleton stretched on the stones, With these strange words wrought of its bones: Free Trade—W. J. Landon.
